Rome, Oct. 25. By the last letters from Terni we learn, that at the time the inhabitants were making a procession in that city, which was ordered, to implore the mercy of God, a shock earthquake was felt, which spread great consternation among the people.

The same letters add, that all the houses of the city threatened ruin in such a manner, that the people are afraid to inhabit any of them.

Paris, Nov. 10. A bankruptcy for nine millions has just happened, to the astonishment of persons versed in the affairs of trade. This was the house of P—, who farmed his bank, having placed too much confidence in a person who failed before him.

This day, a new writ was issued out for electing a member for the shire of Cromarty and Nairn, in Scotland, in the room of Alexander Campbell, Esq; deceased.

This day the Marquis of Carmarthen gave a dinner at his house in Grosvenor-square to the Duke of Dorset, previous to his setting off for the Court of France: all the Cabinet Ministers were invited, and some other of the nobility, &c. were of the party.

It is reported, that Mr Wilberforce is to return to Paris on the business of a commercial adjustment with France.

A certain member of Government lately expressed his fears, that the P— of W— should become too popular; when he was answered, "Considering, Sir, that this young Prince is one day to rule the nation, he cannot surely enter too soon into the hearts of his subjects."

We are informed authentically, that the Duke of Cumberland is now gone upon a visit to the King of Naples, in consequence of the long repeated invitations of that potentate. His Royal Highness is to pass through Avignon, and after spending a few days in that city, to proceed instantly to the southward.

Yesterday, General Fawcett had a long conference with the King at St James's, on the subject of sending the Electoral troops into winter cantonments.

Yesterday, Colonel Dundas, Adjutant-General of the forces in Ireland, had a conference with the King at St James's.

Yesterday afternoon Admiral Campbell arrived in town, from his station at Newfoundland.

Before Admiral Campbell left his station at Newfoundland, in order to return home, all the fishing business was ended for the season, which we hear has not turned out to so much advantage as formerly. The Americans also were so vigilant as to send several ships up the straits before the English vessels had completed their loading.

The most authentic advices from Warsaw and the neighbouring parts mention, that for some time past there have been continued meetings of the principal nobility, who have refused to suffer any strangers to be present at their deliberations, which it is generally believed are the prelude to some great convulsion in that extensive kingdom.

By the Dutch mail which arrived this day, just as this paper was going to press, we have an account of a very gross insult offered to the Prince and Princess of Orange, at Meppel, in the county of Drenthem, on their arrival there with their children from Groningen; and that the tumult was so great that several of them were fired, and one person killed; and had not an armed party, which was appointed to escort them, hastily retired, much bloodshed must have ensued. Their Highnesses were happily housed when the riot began, which was occasioned by some of the populace. St James's Chron.

WIND AT DEAL,
Nov. 18. W. N. W.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, Nov. 19.

"This day his Majesty has a grand hunt, in the neighbourhood of Windsor. The Prince of Wales set off very early this morning from Carleton House, in order to join in the sport, though he gives a grand dinner to-day in town to the foreign ministers, and several of the principal nobility of both parties. Indeed, the most perfect cordiality seems to be every day, more and more, taking root between the Sovereign and the heir apparent.

"Two Cabinet Councils have lately been held at the Admiralty, at which every one of the Ministry assisted, on the subject of some important advices received of the increased state of the French navy, and the vigorous means taken for augmenting it, and the measures necessary to be taken in consequence thereof; when an accurate statement of the British navy was laid before the Council, and orders given for putting it on the most respectable footing; and yesterday, minutes of the same were laid by Lord Howe, before his Majesty.

"Copies of the treaty to be entered into between the courts of Great Britain and France, for the future regulation of commerce, have lately been privately handed about by the confidential friends of the ministry, for the purpose of learning the sentiments of the leaders of the Opposition thereon, which have been such as to throw no little damp on the matter, from the opposition the treaty may, in all probability, receive at the meeting of Parliament; and if reports are to be credited, the treaty, as it now stands, would bring on as warm a contest as was produced by the Irish Propositions. It is, therefore, highly probable, that the minister will put the treaty in a less questionable shape than it now assumes.

"In consequence of several applications lately made by a certain young Nobleman, who rendered himself so very unpopular some few years ago by the riots he occasioned in this metropolis, for an audience with his Majesty, positive orders have again been given for refusing him admittance into any of the Royal apartments, either at Windsor, or in town; and it has been enforced, vi et armis, on more occasions than one. The wishing to present some petitions for an insolvent act, into the King's own hands, is laid to be the cause of his Lordship's repeated visits.

"Some check, it is reported, is seriously meant to the practice, so much given into of late, of sending the children of English parents into France for their education, as well as to lay some restraint, for the purpose of preventing so many natives of Great Britain from entering into the service of foreign powers.

"Private letters from Paris advise, that there are at this time a greater number of English families, and persons of distinction of this country in that city, than has been known for many years past.

"The late extraordinary rise of the stocks, is ascribed to many causes; but if the opinion of these best informed, and the least interested in it, is to be taken, the only true cause, is the present unsettled state of affairs in Holland, which has occasioned very large sums of money to be sent over, to be lodged in the Bank of England.

"Several persons are talked of for the blue ribbon, vacant by the death of the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel; but it is certainly meant to be given to the Marquis of Buckingham."

On the 21st current, was married at Auchinbowie house, Stirlingshire, George Hume, Esq; of Argaty, to Miss Jane Monro, eldest daughter of John Monro, Esq; of Auchinbowie, Advocate.

Died at Melrose, on the 17th current, in an advanced age, Mr William Hunter writer there.

This day Mr Lunardi was to make an aerial excursion from St Andrew's Church-yard, Glasgow. As the weather is very favourable, and the wind westerly, it is possible we may see him here this afternoon. He has, on former occasions, travelled as far in the space of an hour.

The Guard-house being now levelled with the ground, it is supposed the public wells will next fall to be removed. These indeed do not occasion so much obstruction to the street as the former; yet, from the claimants of their construction, they too are incurable. It is now no less than thirty years since the cross of Edinburgh was taken down for incommoding the street—a subject of much regret to the lovers of the antiquities of their country, as it was allowed to be a very elegant structure; and its loss has not yet been supplied, notwithstanding the promise of the Magistrates to the Court of Session, to erect a pillar in its place. The same regret will not be felt at removing the wells. A small pillar, while it would be large enough for a public well, might at the same time serve the purpose of a lamp-post; and if these were erected at the heads of the principal closes, and executed with taste, they would not only be useful, but ornamental to the city.

PLOUGHING MATCH, held 11th Nov. 1785.

We hear from Clackmannanshire, that the Farmer Club of Clackmannanshire, having concerted to have a trial this season of the ploughmen's skill in breaking up old ley ground, with a proper seed furrow, the match was undertaken this day upon a field of old grafs in Lord Cathcart's estate, where two pattern ridges had been ploughed the day before by Alexander Verty, the first ploughman who gained a medal from the Farmer Club. Thirty-seven two-horse ploughs started, their places upon the field having been taken by lot. The whole ploughmen gave proofs of their skill, which gave much satisfaction to the Club, and to the judges who were called to examine the work. The first premium was adjudged to James Young, ploughman to Mr Andrew Stein; the second to George Verty, ploughman to Mr Reoch; the third to Robert Meiklejohn, ploughman to Mr James Stein; and the fourth to James Pow, servant to Mr Reoch.

Lord Cathcart, who is a member of the Club, afterwards gave an elegant entertainment to the Club, and other gentlemen who had attended to witness so pleasing and so useful an exhibition. It is surprising how much this institution has inspired the ploughmen in that part of the country, with an emulation to excel one another in their professions.

After the ploughing-match was over, a bett betwixt most of the members of the Club, for the straightest line to be drawn by the plough, was gained by Mr Andrew Stein, his ploughman Alexander Verty having drawn a furrow admitted by all parties to be the straightest.

Extract of a letter from Elsinore, Nov. 8.

"By accounts from Warberg in Sweden, we are informed, that ten sail of ships has been drove ashore on that coast on the 26th ult. amongst whom is the Hope of Kirkaldy, Captain John Bell from Memel, loaded with timber for Scotland; the Elizabeth of Hull, Captain Dodo Aitken for Liebow with goods. The rest are all foreigners. The Hope had one man drowned."

VERSES occasioned by the Removal of the CITY GUARD to the ASSEMBLY HALL.

WHEN ancient Rome in arms and arts was great,

Her name was Glory, and her laws were Fate;

Surrounding nations, when her wrath was hurl'd,

Submitting, own'd her mistress of the world.

At length she grew too big for mortal sway,

And the dread bulwarks of her strength gave way;

Corruption's canker in her vitals reign'd,

And Vice could not maintain what Virtue gain'd!

A barbarous Gothic foe her force o'erboar'd,

And Rome's long glories sunk—to rise no more!

So, where the Power that softens human hearts,

That man's first bliss and greatest woe imparts!

The pow'r of Beauty, shed her brightest rays,

And Splendour stream'd in one effulgent blaze!

Th' Assembly Hall!—ah! pow'r of change and chance,

No longer grac'd with music and the dance!

A barbarous band thy festive walls invade,

And Splendour, Joy, and Harmony are fled!

Now Oaths, and Eise, and Clamour fill the room,

And Midnight Culprits, trembling for their doom!

Vice's receptacle! now guilt and woe,

Degraded Hall! are all the guests you know!

Edin. Nov. 23. 1785.

To the Printer of the Caledonian Mercury.

SIR,

As your correspondent, whom I should suspect to stand in no very distant political relation to the author of the measure he wishes to justify, has, in your paper of the 31st October, put so many Queries to the Gentlemen of Linlithgow and Ayrshire, I hope to be indulged in proposing a few Queries, which, I dare say, your correspondent will very readily answer.

Query 1. Because it is not necessary that the proceedings of Parliament should be previously authorized or directed by county-meetings, whom he very respectfully chafes to denominate conventions of the people; or, because they do not possess Parliamentary powers of information or enquiry, Does this Querist really think, that these and other bodies have not a right to take under their consideration, and make public their sentiments, respecting either the measures of Parliament, or the Parliamentary conduct of those members who compose it? Does he think they ought never to exercise that right but for the purpose of approbation and thanks? Is he certain that he entertained the same opinion before the termination of the late Parliament; or, has he only found it convenient to adopt it since the commencement of the present?

Query 2. Although that Honourable Gentleman, who proposed the bill in question, had an undoubted right to move any measure he thought proper in Parliament, without communicating such intention to any one whatever, Is it perfectly certain that he would always judge well in doing so? May not cases be figured, in which it would be not only imprudent, but indecent and disrespectful, to hurry a measure through Parliament without taking proper means to learn the sentiments of the country respecting it? And can this Querist recollect no instances which show the wisdom and propriety of that conduct, or the danger, as well as the temerity, of the reverse?

Query 3. Whether a bill, which had for its object, if not a total subversion, at least a most material change in the judicial constitution of this country, was not of such magnitude as, if that course was not followed, made it at least reasonable that the nation should have an opportunity to know and to consider its contents before it passed into a law? Whether this could possibly have been the case, as to the bill in question, had it passed last session of Parliament? And whether, though it was eventually printed for the purpose of notice, in consequence of being opposed in the Committee, any one who reads that part of the bill, authorising the Court of Session to sit for the mighty space of fourteen days after the 12th of August that year, in order to frame regulations adapted to the diminution of their number then in view, can, with a grave countenance, deny, that this was meant to be the case? Or can he, on any other supposition, pretend to justify the measure by which the framer of this bill, by the insertion of a clause, that the place then vacant should not be filled up, made its introduction the means of leaving this country without its constitutional number of Judges, merely because he and his friends had formed an opinion that this number ought to be diminished?

Query 4. As no previous communication was made to these bodies or individuals who might naturally have looked for it, and the agent for the Crown excepted, there was scarce, it is believed, a Gentleman in Scotland favoured with a sight of this bill when moved in Parliament, May we not conclude that this Querist has a more than usual command of features, if he can, with the same gravity of countenance, pretend to state, as a merit in the movers of this bill, that it was eventually printed for the purpose of notice, and allowed to lie over for another session, in consequence of that opposition, when it appears to a demonstration, that nothing could be more opposite to their original intention?

Having answered these Queries, as naturally arising from those which he has put to the Freeholders of Linlithgow, the Querist will please give his attention to the following, as arising no less naturally from those put to the Freeholders of Ayrshire.

Query 1. Supposing the articles of Union were an insurmountable bar to diminishing the number of Judges in the Court of Session, Is there anything in its consisting of fifteen Judges, and in their being denominated, in a particular sense, the Grand Jury of the nation, that can necessarily prevent the introduction of trial by a Jury, properly so called? And may not many methods be devised for conducting such trials in that Court, without diminishing the number of its Judges, or lessening the security derived to the subject from that number, in those matters which, even when such trials shall be introduced, must continue to be judged of by the Court?

Query 2. Because the introduction of Jury trials would not of itself warrant a diminution in the number of the Judges, if otherwise barred by the articles of Union, Does it follow that it might not be reasonable for the people of Scotland, in consideration of that advantage, to consent to an alteration of them in that particular?

Query 3. Because the members for Scotland, though the measure in question is not, perhaps, the only one, even in the full session of Parliament, in which the friends of this Querist shewed no very great respect for them, would do wrong in talking upon themselves to agree to any alteration in the articles of Union, Can he doubt that they would be sufficiently warranted in agreeing to them, respecting such stipulations made in their favour, as it appeared, from the united voice of these great bodies, the people of Scotland now judged it their interest, and expressed their willingness, to depart from?

Query 4. Because the articles of the Union authorise the British Parliament to regulate the proceedings in the Court of Session for the better administration of justice, Does it necessarily follow, that they authorise them to diminish the number of its Judges? or, Can their taking away a power to name Extraordinary Lords, the exercise of which was now necessary to the constitution of the Court, imply a power of diminishing that number of ordinary Judges which was always held necessary to its constitution? or, If it shall be admitted, that they have such a power, Where is it to stop? If they may take away four, may they not take away five, or eight, or ten? And may not Scotland be left to sing the loss of her Judges, as she once did of her Heroes?

"For the flowers of the forest are all fled away!"

Query 5. Whatever the people of Scotland may chuse to do, when the mover of this bill shall show that his plan is calculated for the better administration of justice, Does this Querist really think they should have taken it for granted, that a diminution, to an extent not specified, and on a plan not particularly explained, would have that effect, merely because it was so suggested in the preamble of this bill? or, That they can be justly blamed, because they did not quietly and peaceably relinquish that judicial constitution which was secured by the articles of Union, and which had been enjoyed by their ancestors for centuries, merely because the framer of this bill and his friends chose to assure them that they would put a better in its place?

Query 6. Though it should be granted the Gentlemen of Ayrshire did not, as the Querist expresses himself, understand this subject to the bottom, may it not be asked, Whether it required any extraordinary degree of study to determine, that a bill, printed, as he says, for the purpose of notice, and proposing a diminution in the number of our Judges, without explaining its necessity, or showing what great purpose it was to answer, did not merit the approbation of Parliament? or, that it was improper and disrespectful to the country to attempt hurrying such a bill through Parliament in the manner which had so plainly been intended? or, What reason was there for delaying to express this opinion till the appearance of a publication, of a nature, and from a quarter, not explained, and which, there was no reason to think, the publishing their resolutions would retard?

Query 7. Should it be admitted, that the Gentlemen of these counties, in censuring the introduction of that bill, had used expressions stronger than were necessary, or even proper, since the measure has been so fully justified by this Querist, Was it worth his while to be so very angry about the matter? or, if he feels so very much hurt at the freedom these Gentlemen had used with the mover of the bill, Does he think he acts handsomely towards a noble Lord, when he taxes him with expecting to overawe, by his authority, or to the county-meetings of this country, when he would insinuate their being the factious tools of Opposition?

Query 8. If it would be blameable in the Honourable mover of this, or any other bill in Parliament, to be intimidated from supporting measures which he judged to be right, Would not those who entertain different sentiments be equally to blame in declining to assert them, on account of the epithets which he, or any other friend of that Gentleman's, may chuse to bestow on them? or, when he is so very ready in attributing the sentiments of others to a connection with Opposition, Whether it may not be possible, for the unbiased part of the public, to discover the origin of his in a connection which may be sometimes equally unpropitious to a just estimation of public measures?

Query 9. As to the reasons assigned by this Querist for declining to animadvert on the resolutions of the county of Haddington, Does the opinion, that the Judges of the Court of Session, as presently constituted, have a just claim to, and ought to obtain from the public, an addition to their salaries, appear to him so very unreasonable, that it can only be accounted for from selfish and improper motives? If it be reasonable and well-founded in itself, not to insist on the indecency and impropriety of supposing a meeting of that respectable county to have no opinion of their own, or holding their resolutions as the language of any particular Gentleman among them, Is it liberal or just towards that Gentleman himself, to assign selfish and interested motives for an opinion, the justice of which this Querist has not pretended to question? or, were such illiberal conjectures to be indulged, Is he perfectly certain, that there are no parts of his favourite bill, which might be full as plausible, though, perhaps, full as unjustly accounted for, in such a way as it is hardly to be supposed he would chuse to admit of?

India Tea Warehouse, Kirkgate, Leith,

At which the Public will have genuine Teas, nett as imported.

WILLIAM THORBURN takes this method of returning his most grateful thanks to the many Ladies and Gentlemen who have had Tea from this warehouse, and acquaints them, that he has purchased a considerable quantity of FINE TEAS at the India Company's October sale, which he thinks are very cheap. Part of these Teas are arrived, each single pound of which will be sold at the lowest possible wholesale price, viz. Fine Bohea, 1s. 11d. Good fresh Congo, 3s. 8d. Fine, 4s. Superfine, 4s. 6d. Exceeding good Souehong, 5s. Superfine ditto, 5s. 6d. Pekoe sort, 6s. Good Single Green, 3s. 8d. Fine, 4s. Fine Hyson, 7s. Cowlip ditto, 7s. 6d. Gunpowder Tea, 14s. When a chest is taken, the same allowance of treat will be given as in London.

W. THORBURN can with the greater confidence recommend these Teas to the public, as they were selected by himself in London, with the assistance of two eminent brokers; and the Souehongs of this parcel were entered at the custom-house so late as the 9th of September last, and are perhaps the newest Teas yet sold by the Company. Each pound bag will have a copperplate direction on it to the warehouse; and, if to send to any distance, will be sealed with his initials.

W. Thorburn's customers in Edinburgh, leaving their orders at the house of John Lindsay, new stage coachman, (opposite the Cross, south side of the street), or finding them by any of the coaches, will have their Teas sent to their lodgings, as a servant is sent regularly to Edinburgh for that purpose.

Orders from the country will be properly attended to.

DISTILLERY BUSINESS.

CLACKMANNAN, November 19. 1785.

AT a meeting of the Landed Interest of the county of Clackmannan, convened in order to their taking under their consideration the present state of the Distillery,

Mr ERSKINE of Marr, chosen Preses.

The meeting having taken under consideration the present state of the Distillery, and reasoned thereupon at great length, came to the following Resolutions.

1st. That it is the opinion of this meeting, that the present distillery law, as it now stands, and as it affects the low country, together with the great extent to which the illicit importation of foreign spirits is now carried on, and the very low prices at which they are sold, must prove destructive to the manufacture of corn spirits, and in the end highly prejudicial to the landed interest.

2dly. That it is also the opinion of this meeting, that the mode proposed by the county of East-Lothian, and other counties, of laying the duties upon the contents of the still, by an annual licence, would, in a great measure, obviate the grievances complained of, and, at the same time, secure to the government the revenue arising from the distillery, which at present seems to be on a very precarious footing. And the meeting nominate and appoint Mr Erskine of Marr, and Mr Alexander Abercromby, advocate, or any one of them, a committee from this shire, to meet and concert with the general meeting proposed to be held at Edinburgh, on this business. J. F. ERSKINE, Preses.

BY ADJOURNMENT.

SALE OF KILMARNOCK, AYR-SHIRE.

TO be SOLD by public voluntary roup, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 7th of December 1785, betwixt 6 and 7 o'clock afternoon.

The Lands, Lordship, and Barony of KILMARNOCK, the Lands of BARLEITH and BLAIR, and the Lands of BUSHBY-BARCLAY, with the teinds and pertinents, lying in the parishes of Kilmarlock, Riccarton, and Kilgairs, in the county of Ayr.

The yearly free land rent of the premises, is at present 2100 l. Sterling. The valued rent of the whole is 2800 l. 13 s. 4 d. Scots. The estate is altogether inclosed, having access to every farm by turnpike roads. It is capable of great improvement, situated in the heart of a pleasant and plentiful country, and surrounding the populous manufacturing town of Kilmarlock; which, with several small estates in the neighbourhood, are held of the proprietor of this Lordship. There is an inexhaustible body of coal under the whole lands, and the proprietor has at present two coal works working to great advantage, for home consumption, and for exportation; which may be further greatly increased.

There is also upon this estate, and near the sea port of Irvine, a very valuable blind coal, in much repute for masting, and burning lime. The demand at the Irish, and other foreign markets, is very great, so that it yields at present 1200 l. Sterling per annum clear, is daily increasing, and, in the hands of persons of skill, might much exceed that sum. The country round, abounds in limestone quarries, now working, whereby the lands will be greatly improved, and the rents encreased at the expiry of the current leases. The patronage of the collegiate church of the church of Kilmarlock is pertinent of the estate, with a very numerous suffragane of the town and neighbourhood; whereby the casualties of superiority become very considerable annually. Upon the whole, this Lordship is reckoned as complete, advantageous, and thriving, as any freehold in Scotland, of the extent.

The foregoing estate, and the blind coal, will be exposed together, or in separate lots, at the option of the exposor.

For further particulars inquire at Alexander Farquharson, Esq; accountant, or Thomas Tod writer to the signet, Edinburgh; with whom may be seen the rental and leases, the title-deeds, plans of the estate, and the conditions of sale.

Judicial Sale of Lands in the county of Dumfries.

TO be SOLD within the Parliament or New Session House of Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 30th day of November 1785, betwixt the hours of five and seven o'clock in the afternoon.

The LANDS after mentioned, which belonged to John Dobie of Tundargath.

LOT I. The Lands of TUNDERGARTH, HAZLEBERRY, HAYHILL, and a fourth part of the WESTWOOD BANK, lying in the parish of Tundargath, and shire of Dumfries.

The proven rent of these lands, after all deductions, is 91 l. 2 s. 3 d.

And the proven value, at twenty-three years purchase, is L. 2095 11 9

The teinds are valued, and, after deduction of the minister's stipend, the free teind is 5 l. 6 s. 5 d. and the privilege of purchasing the same is valued at five years purchase, or

26 12 8

Upset price of Lot I. L. 2122 3 10

These lands are held feu of the Viscount of Stormont, for payment of 9 l. 8 s. 10 d. Sterling of yearly feu-duty; but though the whole amount of these feu-duties is deducted from the proven rent, the purchaser will be entitled to relief of a proportion thereof, falling on the lands of Westwood, now belonging to John Paxton, Esq. This proportion will be about 4 l. Sterling, but has not yet been divided from the annuo feu-duty. The tacks of Tundargath and Hazleberry expire at Candlemas and Whitunday 1787, and Hayhill is possessed from year to year.

Although the teinds of the above lands are valued and deducted from the proven rent, yet there is every reason to believe that they are not liable for any teind. In a process of spuilzie of teinds, at the instance of Lord Stormont, the superior and titular, the heritors of Tundargath were absolved by repeated decisions of the Court of Session, but the decret absolvitor has never been extracted.

LOT II. The Lands of CATLINS, and pertinents, lying in the parish of Drydale and shire of Dumfries. The proven rental of these lands, after all deductions, is 48 l. 5 s. 3 d. 8-faths.

And the proven value, at twenty-three years purchase of the free rent, amounts to

L. 1110 5 10 4-12ths

The teinds are valued at 6 l. 10 s. yearly, from which no stipend falls to be deducted, as the same is paid by the superior. The privilege of purchasing the teinds being valued at five years purchase, amounts to

22 10 0

Upset price of Lot II. L. 1142 15 10 4-12ths

These lands hold feu of the Viscount of Stormont for payment of 10 l. 7 s. 6 d. 4-12ths Sterling of yearly feu-duty. They are at present set in tack at 60 l. yearly, besides 60 bushels of lime, and three days leading of peats. The tack expires at Candlemas and Whitunday 1789.

The articles of roup and title-deeds are to be seen in the office of Mr Alexander Stevenson, depute-clerk of Session; and persons wanting further information, may apply to Alexander Young writer in Edinburgh, agent in the sale, John Aiken junior writer in Dumfries, the factor, or to Mango Dobie writer in Lockerbie.

There is a good Mansion-house, offices, garden, and pigeon-house, on the estate, and the lands are all inclosed and subdivided; the divisions well laid out and supplied with water. They have for some time been wholly in grass, except a small field near the mansion-house, and are now in great order. Since the judicial rental was taken, they have risen, though only set from year to year for pasture; and the rent, for the current year to Martinmas next, is 212 l. 18 s. 4 d. and a considerable rise has been offered, upon a set for labour.

The coal has not been wrought for some years. When it was wrought, it turned out to good account; and the main seam, eight feet thick, has never been touched. It is well situated both for foreign and inland sale. The lands hold feu and blench of the Crown, for payment of 2 d. 8-12ths Sterling, and entitle the proprietor to vote for a member to Parliament.

BY ADJOURNMENT.

TO BE SOLD by public roup or auction, within the Exchange Coffee-house, Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 30th day of November 1785, betwixt the hours of six and seven afternoon,

The Lands and Barony of BANNOCKBURN, with the Coal, and Mills, and the Harbour, and Coalfields at Fallinpow, lying in the parish of St Ninians, and shire of Stirling, within three miles of the town of Stirling, upon the great roads leading from Stirling to Edinburgh, and to Glasgow.

These lands consist, conform to a plan, of 796 Scots acres of property, and 264 acres fenced out to different persons; all holding of the Crown, are rated in the land-tax books at 1219 l. 11 s. 8 d. Scots; and the purchaser will have right to the tithes.

The net rent of the land estate (exclusive of the coal) for crop 1783, was 762 l. 7 s. Sterling, including therein the price of 20 bolls malt, and 54 bolls oat meal, at 16 s. per boll.

There is a large Mansion-house with suitable offices. Also a large garden and orchard, and a pigeon-house on the premises, and a salmon fishing at Fallinpow, none of which are included in the rent-roll. There is also a great number of fine full grown timber trees, consisting of oak, ash, beech, and elm, &c. of considerable value; with several young plantations of various kinds of wood, very thriving.

The lands are generally inclosed and subdivided, partly with stone dykes, and partly with thriving hedges. From their situation in a populous country, where extensive manufactures are carried on, and where coal, and all the articles of living are cheap; and from their vicinity to lime, and good roads, they are capable of great improvements, and increase of rent. Some farms are now open, which will rise; and when the other leases which are current expire, a few years hence, a considerable advance may be depended on over the whole estate; and great advantage may be derived from feuing, and from erecting mills on the water of Bannockburn.

There is a valuable field of marle upon the estate, to which a level is carried up. Also two yearly fairs, and a weekly market.

The coal of Bannockburn is extensive, consisting of different seams, level free, and is well known to be of the best quality, and of great value. It has for years past yielded a nett profit, after defraying oncoast and all expenses, of about 1500 l. per annum, as will appear from the coal books, and it may be wrought to a much greater extent if the proprietor inclines: For, besides the demand from the town of Stirling and the country around, there is a harbour and fold and other conveniences at Fallinpow, on the Frith of Forth, belonging to the estate, where a sea sale may be carried on to a great advantage.

A purchase in itself more complete, of better and more convenient situation for intercourse with Edinburgh, Glasgow, Stirling, and the Frith of Forth, &c. and capable of higher improvement, rarely occurs in the market.

The tacks, rent-roll, plan, progress of writs, and conditions of sale, are to be seen in the hands of John Moir writer to the signet; and for further particulars application may be made to him, or to John Dundas writer to the signet, or John McKillop writer in Stirling, or to Alexander Farquharson accountant in Edinburgh, who has power to sell by private bargain. William Thomson overseer of the coal at Bannockburn will show the estate, and the coal books.
